

Evaluation design determines the generalization claim a Permissive evaluation

Random spot split intermingles train and test within the same tissue context

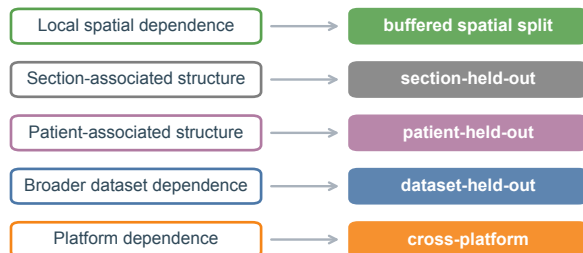

b Sources of apparent performance

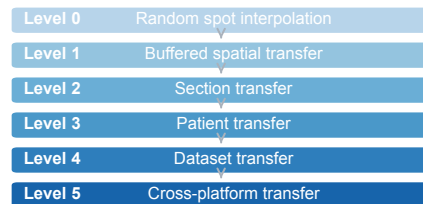

Spatial information itself is not invalid; the split determines what it can support.

c Isolation strategies

d Generalization hierarchy

The evaluation tier determines the level of generalization that can be claimed.